City To Elect New Council Next Tuesday, September 18

About 2,000 Greenbelters are expected to trek to the polls next Tuesday, September 18, to cast their votes for the five city council members who will head the municipal government for the next two years. The three polling places at the Greenbelt Municipal Building (3rd precinct), North End Elementary School (6th precinct), and the Springhill Lake Community Center (8th precinct) will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Four of the five incumbents are seeking re-election: Mayor Richard Pilski, Charles Schwan, Elizabeth Maffay, and Gil Weidenfeld. Eight other candidates are competing for the spots: John Bogumill, Fred Ford, William McCarthy, Vincent Palacino, Richard Castaldi, Michael Burchick, James O'Sullivan, and Thomas X. White. Biographies of the candidates appear on page 4.

Election Procedures

All council members are elected at large. In order for a candidate to be elected, he must receive 40 percent or more of the votes cast. If fewer than five candidates receive such a vote, a run-off election will be held one week later on Tuesday, September 25.

In the run-off election, the ballot will consist of those unsuccessful candidates receiving the highest number of votes, up to twice as many names as there are positions to be filled. Candidates polling the greatest number of votes are declared winners in the run-off election, regardless of the percentage of votes received.

The 40-percent requirement for election was introduced in 1967. Prior to that a majority vote was required, usually resulting in run-off elections. Since 1967, no run-offs have taken place, though many observers believe that the large number of candidates this year will require a run-off.

Each voter is entitled to vote for five candidates. Voting for fewer than five obviously increases the possibility of a run-off election.

Registration Count

The number of Greenbelters registered to vote is 3,568, not much changed from the 3,433 registered in 1971. Only 53 percent of the voters cast ballots in 1971, with the highest percentages registered in North End (61%) and Center (59%).

This year the Center precinct has 1,297 registrants; the North End precinct, 1,274; and the Springhill Lake precinct, 997. The Springhill Lake registration has dropped considerably from its 1971 total when it surpassed the other two precincts.

If all five council members are elected September 18, there will be an organizational meeting on Monday, September 24. (This meeting is set by charter).

Upon being sworn in, the newly-elected council members will choose the mayor. Although the charter is silent on this point, past councils have generally chosen the top vote-gatherer.

Queen Pageant

Miss Kim Nickolson was crowned "Miss Greenbelt" 1973 at the Labor Day Festival. Kim was sponsored by the Greenbelt Little League. Other participants in the Queen Pageant were: first runner - up, Alice Plaster (Ben Franklin); second, Pamela Davis (La Jon's Beauty Shop); third Kim Robbins (Greenbelt Sports Center); fourth Robin Corbin (Greenbelt Homes, Inc.). Other participants were: Patsy Fleming (Greenbelt Variety); Brenda Bradford (Beltway Barber Shop); Shirley Clute (Kash Realtor); Robin Tasker (Springhill Lake Community House); Terri Raley (Sonny's Barber Shop) and Julie Sontheimer (Greenbelt Youth Center). The Miss Congeniality award went to Pamela Davis and the Miss Photogenic award to Julie Sontheimer.

Lesley Kreimer Wins Easily In Greenbelt

Lesley Kreimer easily led the primary balloting in Greenbelt for a school board seat from the 2nd District. She received 789 votes to 243 for Dolores D. Burcham and 198 for St. Clair Reeves. Altogether, 1,230 persons voted out of 8,521 voters registered in Greenbelt - a 14.4 percent turnout.

Greenbelt's vote represents about 32 percent of the 2nd District total. As this newspaper went to press, Kreimer and Burcham were the two top vote-getters in the entire 2nd District and will compete in the general election on November 6 for a seat on the 9-member school board.

Mrs. Kreimer made her best showing in Springhill Lake, receiving 74 percent of the total vote. She received 68 percent in Center and 54 percent in North End.

Greenbelt Results — Primary School Election

	Total	Springhill Lake	Center	North End
Lesley Kreimer	789	218	313	258
St. Clair Reeves	198	42	67	89
Dolores Burcham	243	34	81	128

PRAB to Hold Meeting

Joseph E. Wilkinson, chairman of the Greenbelt Park and Recreation Advisory Board, has invited civic, athletic, and religious organizations to meet with it and recreation department officials on November 15 at the Youth Center to exchange comments on the operation of the department. The public will also be invited. Wilkinson said this was an opportune time for such a meeting with the resignation of the Recreation Director and the appointment of Harry Irving as Acting Director.

CARES Meeting

The regular monthly CARES meeting will be held this Monday, September 17 at 8 p.m. at the Methodist Church, 40 Ridge Road. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Featured speaker of the meeting will be Wilbur Wright who is active in the organization FLOC - For Love of Children. FLOC operates some 53 homes where families are providing loving homes for other peoples' children. CARES hopes to learn much from FLOC's experience in setting up its shelter homes in and around Greenbelt.

Voters Get First Hand View Of Candidates

by Al Skolnik

Springhill Lake voters were eagerly wooed at the SHL Civic Association-sponsored candidates' night forum on Wednesday, September 5. City council candidates listed their accomplishments on behalf of Springhill Lake and aspirants promised they would do even more. Actually, there was almost complete agreement among all the 11 candidates present (incumbent Elizabeth Maffay was sick and unable to attend) as to the needs of Springhill Lake.

These included a SHL recreation center building, improved ballfields, an intra-city bus service, pedestrian pathways and bicycle trails over the highways, alleviation of traffic problems (entry and exit to the SHL project), adequate representation on city bodies, and reduction of crime.

SHL Recreation Center

The only SHL item that produced some differences concerned the location of the SHL Recreation Center. Incumbents Charles Schwan and Gil Weidenfeld stressed their vigorous efforts to purchase the SHL golf course with the help of Federal and State funds and to hasten the construction of the Center on the site. Candidate Thomas White, while favoring the Recreation Building, thought it was poor planning to put it on the golf course site, which, he said, is part of a flood plain that should be preserved for its storm water holding capacity. He favored a more centralized location for the building, but didn't specify where.

Mayor Richard Pilski, along with Schwan and Weidenfeld, took pride in the use of Federal revenue-sharing funds to help meet the costs of constructing the SHL Recreation Center as well as the costs of other capital improvements. White, however, favored using the revenue-sharing funds to reduce taxes. The incumbents, in response, pointed out how the city benefited by the use of revenue-sharing funds for capital improvements. Additional bond issue money, they said, is thus released for acquisition of parkland — money which in turn can be stretched to the fullest through matching Federal and State open-space funds.

Candidate Vincent Palacino also warned of the dangers of using Federal revenue-sharing funds for tax reduction purposes or for meeting on-going city programs because of the lack of guarantees that such funds would be forthcoming in future years. Drying up of these funds, he said, would mean heavy tax increases in future years.

City-Wide Issues

Turning to city-wide issues, the candidates showed more divergences, but generally speaking, these differences were more a matter of emphasis than of substance. Candidate Fred Ford, for example, thought the council should spend more time keeping communication channels open with the youth to avoid their alienation. Candidate Richard Castaldi warned of the need to keep a close eye on erosion and other problems that may be created by the development of the Golden Triangle and the SHL industrial tract.

Palacino stressed the need for long-range planning. Candidate James O'Sullivan emphasized the need for open, available, and responsive government (citing his voluntary disclosure of finances). Candidate Michael Burchick pledged to vote the will of the people on important issues.

Several candidates saw an overriding need as that of the council working together to represent all the people and not just particular sections. Making this point were candidates William McCarthy, John Bogumill, Pilski, Ford, and Burchick.

Land Development

One issue that drew response from all candidates was that of future development of Greenbelt and the need to keep controls on developers. McCarthy summed up the general sentiment with a pithy slogan: "A better but not bigger Greenbelt."

Bogumill said that from his observations, developers have county and State laws going for them, but "they won't have Bogumill." Schwan challenged anyone to match his record of keeping developers under control.

Several candidates saw the problem as being the wrong kind of development. O'Sullivan and Weidenfeld stressed the need for single-family housing. Burchick said that Greenbelt needs housing that young couples can afford. Castaldi said that before any development takes place "we should have adequate facilities" and was seconded by White.

The candidates were on their best behavior. White praised Schwan for his record as a long-time fighter for the city's goals, although adding he felt Schwan's thinking had not kept up with the times. White cited the need for going beyond the master plan to seek reversion of undeveloped land back to original zoning and he thought there might be some virtue in the city seeking its own zoning powers.

Weidenfeld responded that he thought the most feasible way to control undesirable development is for the city to purchase land as open space.

Greenbriar

There were some inevitable questions about Greenbriar. Palacino thought that the council was at fault for not foreseeing the uproar that the Greenbriar issue would create. Ford thought that the Greenbriar issue had had the undesirable effect of diverting council's attention from other problems, especially those of youth.

Pilski was asked to explain his letter to NASA favoring the granting of an easement for the on-site treatment plant. He said that the easement was the last step in a long list of conditions that council had requested the developer to meet. There was nothing in that letter, he said, that had not already appeared as part of a statement to the press he made in February 1972.

Schwan rejoined that there were two aspects of the Pilski letter that the majority of council did not agree with. The statement that "the majority of council are anxious to see the project go forward" and that the Pilski letter reflects "the attitude of a substantial majority of the citizens of Greenbelt."

Intra-City Bus Service

The need for an intra-city bus service connecting SHL with the central core and meeting the needs of the elderly won the support of all candidates. Pilski, Schwan, and Weidenfeld pointed to the Federal and State grants the city had received to study the costs and feasibility of a bus service and to plan for its operation.

White and Burchick indicated a desire to dispense with the planning and use the funds to buy a mini-bus now. Schwan pointed out that the city is putting up only $2,500 of the $10,000 study and that the $2,500 wouldn't go far toward meeting the costs of a bus system. All three incumbents agreed that a study was a first necessity.

Pot Shots

The meeting, presided over by moderator John Roth, consisted first of each candidate speaking for five minutes, followed by a question and answer period. The latter produced the usual number of pot shots at the candidates.

Weidenfeld was asked to explain his vote against an anti-busing motion (he considered it improper action to take when the constitutional issue was before the courts); Pilski was asked why he opposed a separate polling place for Springhill Lake four years ago (he said he first wanted to study the need for additional polling places throughout the city); White was asked why the Democratic Club, of which he is president, has held no meetings for two years (he said attendance had been poor, but things would be picking up again next year with the State-wide election).

Meet Miss Greenbelt-Kim Nickolson

by Sandra Barnes

Kim Nickolson, Miss Greenbelt — 1973, is an extroverted 16-year-old who attends Parkdale Senior High School. Kim has a variety of interests outside of her school work. She likes to draw and has won a first place award for a fire prevention poster which she designed. She has also won other art awards at past Labor Day Festivals.

Her other hobbies include riding motorcycles and collecting antiques. She presently owns an antique chest and hopes to find an old refrigerator which she wants to turn into a cabinet for keeping wine and glasses.

Kim entered the beauty pageant quite by chance as a friend submitted her name and then called her to tell her about it. Kim says she never expected to win and just stayed in the contest "for the fun of it."

With the honor of being chosen Miss Greenbelt, Kim also received a $150 scholarship toward a modeling course which she expects to complete by age 18. After that she might enter other beauty contests. However, her main goals, she says, are to travel, go to college, and eventually learn to become a dental assistant.

Kim lives with her mother, Mrs. Eloise Nickolson, and her two older brothers. She looks forward to her various duties as Miss Greenbelt, which will include appearing with the Greenbelt majorettes and acompanying the mayor at official events.

Unconscionable

To the Editor:

I am a candidate and am open for fair criticism. It is unconscionable that my friend Mrs. Marcia Krasnick whose only activity in this campaign has been keeping an accounting of my campaign expenditures, should be publicly attacked by Mrs. Rhea Cohen.

Marcia Krasnick's integrity and impartiality as an election registrar and judge are well known in Greenbelt and therefore she was offered the position of a judge in the city election. Mrs. Cohen alleges, "Marcia Krasnick is an election judge" and infers that as my campaign treasurer she has a conflict of interest.

Had Mrs. Cohen contacted Mrs. Krasnick instead of resorting to a public smear in the paper, she would have learned that Marcia Krasnick is not a judge because she never accepted the position offered to her.

Yes, Mrs. Cohen, you had only to check the city records. You have maligned Marcia Krasnick without cause and without caring in your reckless accusations.

Diabetic Mobile Unit Not Used At Festival

Chairman Henry Fisher of the Greenbelt Lions, who sponsored diabetic testing by the Prince Georges Health Department, reports that only 364 persons were tested in the two days of Labor Day weekend. The reason for the poor showing was that the large mobile unit had broken down and Mr. Dutrow, an aide of the Health Department, was not noticed as he sat at a small table near the post office.

Of those tested, five were found to have diabetes or tested positive, Lion Fisher promises to have the mobile unit here shortly so that interested citizens may have another chance to be tested.

The Lions annual glaucoma tests will probably be given in November.

Letters to the Editor

The Use of Statistics

To the Editor:

Disraeli said there are three kinds of liars: 1, the plain liar; 2, the damn liar; and 3, the statistician. Now Harvey Geller is a very honest person and I am sure his statistics, showing that the supporters of Rhea Cohen have had more letters printed in the News Review than her opponents, are correct. However, the manner in which these statistics are used is quite misleading.

The letters in support of Councilwomen Cohen did not consist entirely of rebuttals to her opponent's letters as Geller has it appear. On the council Cohen is outnumbered 4 to 1. Since speaking time at council meetings is usually limited other means must be used to answer the councilmen. Hence the large number of letters from Mrs. Cohen's supporters which the News Review has been kind enough to print.

Councilmen Schwan, Weidenfeld and Maffay are all liberal and actually have much in common with Rhea Cohen. What has happened is that a wall has been built between Cohen and the other councilmen. It may be that the wall was built largely by the supporters of Cohen. Let us hope that we will get a fresh start with the new city council. This can best be done by getting some new faces on the Council. I suggest John Bogumill and Tom White.

Robert Auerbach

Another Version

To the Editor:

Recent campaign literature has recalled the battle to change the location of the high school. As an original and continuing member of the Save Our Community Committee (SOCC) I would like to remind the people that the battle was WON by our group, then led by Bill Lathom and Rhea Cohen, and actively supported by many citizens, including Eunice Coxon, Dorothy Baluch, Chas. MacDonald, Tom White, Mary and Jim Welch, Josephine and Ed Ross, Lekh and Suzanne Batra, Mildred Murrow, Mike Hoffman, Leo Gerton, Gail and Alex Chavrid.

Under Tom White's leadership SOCC has fought for good planning, and a safe environment, leading the petition drive against the Greenbriar sewage treatment plant. It seems strange that the leadership in such citizen efforts so seldom comes from city council.

Festival Thanks

To the Editor:

The Labor Day Festival Committee was pleased to organize and conduct the 19th Greenbelt Labor Day Festival. The committee now wishes to thank all those who participated through helping in any manner, particularly those operating the booths or in the Parade, the many stage acts, special events including cultural, entertainment or athletics, as well as those who came as customers or to watch.

Most cooperative were the city employees, the recreation department and the News Review. Special thanks go to the C&P Telephone Co. for their gift to the Outstanding Citizen and to "Pop" Cipriano for his gift to the Festival. We wish to acknowledge the participation and support of Springhill Lake to the Festival.

Truly this Festival lived up to its theme "Unity Through Community Involvement."

Festival Chairman

THANKS

To our friends and neighbors and passing acquaintances who cared enough to help.

David and I want you all to know that "Thank You" is so inadequate for the gratitude we feel in our hearts for all the thoughtful things you all have done for us, especially during these difficult times we are going through!

Tacit Alliance?

To the Editor:

I have been reading with growing amazement some of the letters published by the News Review in the last three issues. What is going on?

My curiosity was aroused first by Mr. Pilski's letter of August 23, approving the Greenbriar Sewage plant. In it he took to task three council members, presumably Maffay, Schwan and Weidenfeld, for their disavowal of his letter to NASA when it was the fourth, Cohen, who discovered the letter and disclosed it to public scrutiny.

In the same issue Leonard Cohen attacked the entire council majority" and the "four incumbents" the next week, but in his latest letter on September 6, while he continued to charge four with derelictions, he named only Maffay, Schwan, and Weidenfeld, each twice, as being guilty of specific wrongdoings.

In that same issue Mr. White criticized the "four member majority," but likewise gave individual attention to only three, Maffay, Schwan and Weidenfeld, devoting a separate paragraph to each one's transgressions. Also Mrs. Cohen chimed in with a letter criticizing Mr. Weidenfeld for naming his campaign treasurer as an election judge, when in point of fact she never accepted the judgeship.

I have heard many times that politics makes strange bedfellows, but I find it hard to believe that Cohen – White can maintain their credibility and Pilski his if there exists a tacit alliance among them directed against the candidacies of Maffay, Schwan and Weidenfeld.

Lee Conn

"Confused"

To the Editor:

I get confused every time I read one of Leonard Cohen's letters.

To take the latest.

He denounces Mr. Schwan's resolution invoking "safeguards" against the Greenbriar sewage plant as merely a ploy designed to safeguard the developer's interests since the resolution could not bind the developer. But as Mr. Cohen knows very well, the action he favored of outright rejection of the plant would also not have bound the developer. This is because only State and county authorities, not the city council, could make the decision to approve or disapprove the plant.

At the time the city considered this matter, these decision-making State and county authorities had already indicated that they were favorably inclined toward the plant. Ms. Cohen and Mr. White themselves pointed this out in letters to the News Review on February 1, March 30, and November 2, 1972, and on August 23, 1973.

A council vote of outright rejection would have meant taking the risk that the plant would be approved without safeguards. Apparently Leonard Cohen was willing to take that risk. I am glad the council majority was not.

THANKS

My year as chairman of the 1973 Queen Pageant was a very wonderful experience. I would like to thank the following people for being so helpful and thoughtful: Mr. and Mrs. Billy Dobbin, Terry Parker, the judges and sponsors, Jamie Burchick and all the people who helped in any way. My special thanks go to the 11 girls in the Pageant for their cooperative attitude and thoughtfulness. Thank you all for making the 1973 Queen Pageant a success. Anna Burchick

Muddying the Waters

To the Editor:

The attacks by Leonard and Rhea Cohen, Tom White and others which we have witnessed in the Letters column during the past weeks are unforunate for a number of reasons – but particularly because they muddy the waters about the accomplishments of the three council members on whom they have zeroed in.

While I support Tom White in this election because of his ability to raise issues which need to be raised, I support Charlie Schwan even more strongly because he has the ability to take a critical look at the issues raised and to work hard to come to reasonable solutions to the problems.

Zoning Map Amendment

To the Editor:

There is one aspect of planning and zoning that can improve Greenbelt's quality of life in the future which has not been previously emphasized. County Resolution 57-1971, charges the County Executive and the Park and Planning Commission to review the entire County by Planning Areas for the purposes of adopting new Comprehensive Zoning Maps. The adoption of Council Bill 43, which details the procedural mechanism for the proposal is imminent. The official zoning map for Greenbelt is not clearly defined because of its R-P-C (Rural Planned Community) "limbo" status, and there are some areas of the city than can possibly be "downzoned," or alternative zones imposed that more clearly reflect the wishes of the community. Piecemeal zoning only engenders parcel-by-parcel controversies. What Greenbelt needs is a new beginning that can only be acomplished through sectional zoning map amendment of Planning Area 67.

Campaign Gossip

To the Editor:

Campaign gossip sinks to its lowest depths when it seeks to involve a child.

Our 11-year old daughter, Sharon was transferred on January 29 of this year along with some of her schoolmates from Springhill Lake Elementary to Oakcrest Elementary.

When we moved to Boxwood Village this year, she was given permission to continue in Oakcrest for her last year.

The distance to John Carroll is ten miles. The distance to Oakcre is twelve miles. Obviously, no question of circumventing busing applies in this case.

COUNCIL ENDS TERM IN HARMONY REINSTATES ANTI-BURN ORDINANCE

by Al Skolnik

The last meeting of the present city council on Monday, September 10, ended in good cheer, as council members congratulated each other and the city staff for their efforts during the last two years. Councilman Charles Schwan observed that despite impressions to the contrary, out of 521 votes taken by council during the past two years, 83% or 431 votes were unanimous. There were, he said, only 89 split votes, of which 53 were 4 to 1.

Last Monday's meeting revealed the same pattern of unanimity, but there was one split vote — on an issue that continued to plague council. The council, by a 3 to 2 vote, decided to revert to the city's original anti-burning ordinance. Last April this ordinance by a 4 to 1 vote had been amended to permit the burning of stumps as part of a compromise whereby the Greenbriar developer agreed to clear the rest of the land by chipping and making the chips available to Greenbelters.

The council members changing their minds were Elizabeth Maffay and Schwan. They voted to join Rhea Cohen in making the necessary three votes. Apparently they were influenced by the fact that the new county regulations going into effect July 1 made it difficult to use the air curtain destructor method in clearing land in Greenbelt. Schwan said that what was needed was a more constructive approach to land-clearing that involved something other than burning or hauling. He thought the Fredericksburg operation involving a scissors machine and stump grinder may be the answer, provided sufficient equipment becomes available.

The dilemma facing council last April was that this equipment was not available and that the developer was hauling stumps (which cannot be chipped) and other tree products to a landfill 26 miles away. The council at that time (with the exception of Rhea Cohen) felt that the pollution created by exhaust fumes of trucks hauling away stumps and other tree products was much worse than the controlled method of burning stumps through the air curtain destructor method.

The majority of council made clear at Monday's meeting that it had not changed its evaluation of this situation. Mrs. Maffay pointed out that the amount of air pollutants created by the ACD method was not known, but it was known that trucks are high pollutants. The council's action of last May, she said, was designed "to cause the least damage to the environment."

On one other Greenbriar matter, council unanimously requested the Maryland State Department of Health and Mental Hygiene to hold a public hearing within the city boundaries on the Greenbriar sewage treatment plant. Under new regulations, such a hearing is required before a permit is given for a construction permit.

Campaign Contributions

The council unanimously moved ahead to pass a charter amendment giving the council authority to require candidates to report on campaign contributions and providing that no person shall be deemed elected to the city council until such reports have been filed (if authorized).

At the same time council passed a city ordinance implementing the charter change, after increasing the amounts to be reported from more than $10 to more than $25. An interim report is required seven days before the election, giving the names of contributors and amounts in excess of $25. A final report must be submitted six days after the election. This year's election will not be affected by this legislation.

On the matter of a public disclosure law, council decided to defer to the new council, since there were questions of reconciling the proposed city ordinance with the new State legislation. The latter directs municipalities to pass legislation which substantially agrees with the requirements of the State law for State officials. The council thought it best that a new look be taken at the proposed city ordinance with the idea, according to councilman Gil Weidenfeld, of taking the best of both legislations. In the meantime, the language of the State law was introduced for first reading.

Land-Acquisition

The council received a report from its Park and Recreation Advisory Board recommending that the city acquire all 75 acres in parcel 1 (land between Greenbelt Homes, Inc. property and the Baltimore - Washington Parkway). PRAB suggested that 30 of the 75 acres be developed as a recreational park consisting of the following: nature trails, bike paths, picnic areas, primitive camping, barbecue pits and free play area. PRAB chairman Joseph E. Wilkinson said that such a park area would relieve the overcrowding at the present Greenbelt Lake Park.

Other Matters

Council agreed to a change in the contract with Three State Construction Company doing the Center Mall concrete work, to permit waiving the bond requirements, provided the city pays the suppliers directly. The work is expected to begin next week . . . Cathy Foster was named as SHL election judge, since Marcia Krasnick did not accept the position . . . Two Greenbelt Troops, No. 202 and No. 746, received the President's Award of Excellence for their environmental protection services.

An Open Letter to the Citizens of Greenbelt

GREENBRIAR ASSOCIATES
c/o Rozansky & Kay Construction Co.
501 Slaters Lane
Alexandria, Virginia 22314

In my open letter published in last week's (September 6) edition of the Greenbelt News Review, I promised to make available to the public the findings of the independent economic consultants, Robert R. Nathan Associates, as to the tax benefits of the Greenbriar project for your city. I have taken this advertisement to reproduce the text of Mr. Nathan's letter transmitting the report and summarizing its contents.

The central conclusion is this:

If Greenbriar were occupied today, the city would enjoy $137,000 in annual tax and other revenues in excess of public expenditures attributable to the development — monies which could be applied to reduce your local taxes from $.92 to $.75 per $100, to improve your public services, or both.

Mr. Nathan's letter follows:

ROBERT R. NATHAN ASSOCIATES

Dear Mr. Kay:

Transmitted herewith is our report, "The Effect of the Greenbriar Development on Revenues and Expenditures of the City of Greenbelt at Current Tax Rates and Levels of Service." We have discussed a draft of this report with the City Manager and members of his staff for accuracy and the reasonableness of our assumptions and have made such adjustments as seem to us appropriate. However, we are solely responsible for the report and its conclusions.

Our study is addressed to this question: if Greenbriar were fully occupied and part of Greenbelt today, what would be the increase in the city's (1) revenues, and (2) expenditures, at current tax rates and levels of service?

The basis of the analysis is the approved budget for 1973/74. The method of approach was to examine the line items in the 1973/74 approved city budget and estimate what each revenue or expenditure item would have been this year if Greenbriar were developed, occupied, and on the tax rolls. It is estimated that the assessed valuation of city property would be increased from $63,500,000 to $79,700,000, or an increase of about 25 percent. The expected increase in population is 3,000, or about 16 percent.

On the foregoing basis, we find that the Greenbriar development would increase the city's revenues by about $243,000 per year at present tax rates, and require city expenditures of about $106,000 per year at current prices and levels of service. Thus, net revenues available to the city as a result of Greenbriar would increase by $137,000.

The major increases in revenues would be $149,000 from the property tax and $59,000 from income taxes. The balance would come from other public sources, local, state and federal.

If Greenbriar were part of the city now, the Council would have the choice of maintaining the present level of services and reducing the property tax rate or increasing the level of services with the same rax rate or some combination of these two applications. If the level of services remained the same, the property tax rate for the year 1973-74 would be about $.75 per $100 of assessed valuation instead of the current rate of $.92.

The following table shows the reduction in tax rate if the level of services were not changed.

Calculation of Property Tax Rate Consistent with Revenue and Expenditure Estimates Including Greenbriar

Revenue with Greenbriar at present tax rates:
Property tax (rate of $0.92)	$733,240
All other revenue	$882,712
Total revenues	$1,615,952
Expenditures required with Greenbriar	$1,478,473
All revenue except property tax	-$882,712
Required from property tax	$595,761
Tax rate on assessed valuation of $79,700,000	$0.75

Very truly yours,
Robert R. Nathan

The full text of the Nathan report has been made available to the Mayor, City Manager, the members of the City Council and other interested public officials. If you would like a copy of the report or have any questions concerning Greenbriar, please write to me at the above address.

Very truly yours,

Metro Meeting On Contract Bus Service

by Gabe Huck

The pricing of contract bus service will be the subject of a meeting sponsored by Metro next Wednesday night, Sept. 19, at 7:30 in the State Highway Administration Building, Kenilworth Avenue at Crescent. This is one of three meetings on the subject being held in the metropolitan area to help the Metro board of directors decide on the need and price of such services.

At present only Reston has contract services. Contract service means that a body (a private corporation in the case of Reston) guarantees to meet Metro's cost for express bus service (with perhaps a small profit margin for Metro if the directors so decide.) The sponsoring group then undertakes to fill the buses, hoping to get enough regular riders to offer a reasonable fare.

At present Greenbelt has only one express bus into Washington (leaving between 7:15 and 7:30 a.m.) and one back (leaving downtown just after 5 p.m.) How many private vehicles make the same trip at the same hours? More to the point, how many private vehicles make the trip an hour earlier or an hour later with drivers and passengers who might switch to the bus? (Besides the express, there is local service; the express gets downtown in just over 30 minutes but the local takes two or three times as long. Both cost 85c. As increased parking costs, pollution of the air (nearly all from cars) and commuter taxes become realities, express bus service looks better and better.

City officials (perhaps members of the new council) and persons on their own or as part of organizations might wish to attend the Metro meeting Wednesday. For more information call 484-2673.

Environmental News

by Gabe Huck

With charges and claims flowing around the proposed Greenbriar sewage plant, it might be a good time to wade into a weekend for just celebrating water. The following ideas are taken from Celebrate Summer, a book written by Elizabeth Jeep and myself and published recently by Paulist Press.

RAIN BARREL. Collect rain as it falls in any non-metallic container. Strain it through cloth to remove leaves or other foreign matter. Chill and then compare its taste to water from your tap. Wash your hair with it, water your houseplants with it..

WET WALK Put on your bathing suit (or raincoat, if you must) and go barefoot in the rain. Wade in the puddles. Notice the way the rain tickles your back, trickles on scalp, clings to your eyelashes. Notice the clammy way pieces of grass and leaves stick to your feet. Notice the way leaves hold on to drops of water and how the light sparkles on each drop. Notice the drainage pattern across the lawn, sidewalk and driveway to the storm sewer. Look for the rainbow.

WATER STUDY. Why do some scientists believe life first appeared in the ocean? How much of the earth's surface is covered with water? What is a "water shed"? Where is the watershed for your area? On a map trace the route water from your area takes to the ocean . . .

COLORED CUBES. Make interesting ice cubes. Use food coloring for flair. Freeze a cherry in each cube and use them in lemonade, (or an olive for those who prefer a martini on the rocks!). Make snow cones with crushed ice and lemonade, orange juice, etc. Frost glasses for iced drinks. Open up a lemonade stand, or give a paper cup full of punch to everyone you see, free.

SURVEY. Study your family's use of water. For several days keep a record of the total number of times the water is turned on in your house. It might be fun to have each member of the family guess at the total before you take the survey. Is most of your water used for cooking? laundering? bathing? Find out the total amount of water used during the survey period if you have a water meter. How much of that water was wasted? Are there ways your family can be more careful of this resource? Do you run water all the time you are brushing your teeth? Can you keep it contained in the refrigerator instead of running it to get cold water? What about bathing and showering together?

DRY RUN. Test yourself on the modern convenience of plumbing. Do not turn on a water tap for two days. It is not impossible. After all most people in the world have never seen indoor plumbing. Collect enough water in the bathtub for bathing and flushing purposes. Collect some in pots for cooking and drinking. Then put tape over all the faucets, or turn off the main valve in the basement. Do you find that you change the ways you use water when it is rationed in this way, and has to be heated on the stove?

WATER GAMES. Have a water gun fight, or use water-filled balloons if you don't have water guns. Dunk for apples. Make mud pies.

Operation Identification

The Greenbelt Jaycees are sponsoring "Operation ID". This is a program to discourage theft, and burglary. This is achieved by engraving your driver's license number on items such as tools, radios, televisions, small appliances, cameras, sports equipment, guns, musical instruments, or any other item that may appeal to thieves. Engraved items are much less likely to be stolen or, if stolen, much easier to recover. The Greenbelt Jaycees will loan engraving pens free of charge to any local group or organization. 5. Day Care

It has been proposed that the Ridge Road Recreation Center (old Lutheran Church building at 22 Ridge Road) be used as a day care center. In order to do so, the building would have to be improved to meet health and safety requirements, and the use of the building for recreation activities would have to be restricted and/or curtailed. A day care center at this location could provide care for approximately 40 children a day.

a) Would you favor the Ridge Road Center being used primarily:

as a Recreation Center?

as a Day Care Center?

b) If used as a day care center, should it be operated:

by the City?

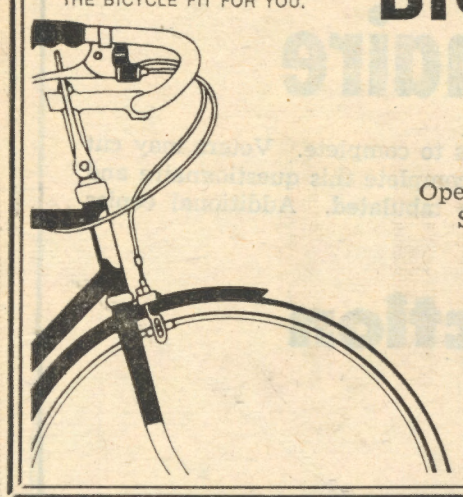

by a non-profit organization, leasing the facility at cost?

by a non-profit or profit-making organization leasing the facility at a rent providing reasonable income to the city?

c) If operated as a day care center, should financial assistance be provided by the city to low income families whose children use the facility? Yes

COUNCIL
"Unity through Community Participation"

AGE: 29 years

MARRIED: 3 children

GRADUATE: High Point High School

COMPLETED: Management Training Course – Georgia Tech

Ten (10) years planning and zoning experience

Attended special advance training program offered by Public Housing Authority and received award from Maryland State Commissioner of Public Health.

Attending University of Md.

Second Generation Greenbelter.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Castaldi.

Member of G.H.I.

Resides: 58-D Crescent Road.

Lifetime resident Greenbelt.

Member of Board of Directors of Maryland-National Capital Park & Planning Commission

Federal Credit Union.

Participated in many of the recreational activities in Greenbelt; i.e., baseball, football, swimming, etc.

PLATFORM

LEADERSHIP: Serve community by being responsive to citizen aspirations and life styles. Restore reputation of Greenbelt as excellent residential community for all ages and interests. Achieve "unity through community participation".

TAXES: Maintain or lower level of taxation by taking advantage of revenue sharing programs and other available governmental sources of money.

ELDERLY. Provide adequate housing, tax abatement, and other measures that endow the elderly with dignity and sense of community involvement.

DRUGS AND YOUTH: Meet local problem with professional guidance and strict law enforcement; coupled with intelligent and responsible rehabilitation programs.

RECREATION: Promote greater utilization of existing facilities through broader range of activities reflecting citizen interests.

GROWTH AND DEVELOPMENT: Urge legislation giving incorporated communities greater voice on local development proposals. Use rational approach to land use and zoning by heavy emphasis on city control of site plans, environmental impact and other public facilities.

GREENBRIAR: Sanction package treatment plants only where they solve emergency septic tank failures, or promote economic or social benefit to community until normal sewer lines are provided. Greenbriar does not meet these criteria, in my opinion.

SHOPPING MALL: Revitalize Center through equitable share of cost. Engender pride in the Mall as local activity center. Use attractive landscaping, street furniture, modern unobstrusive signing and lighting.

CITY COUNCIL ELECTION

Tuesday, September 18

7 A.M. - 8 P.M.

How come this kid has more money saved than you do?

Take stock in America.
Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

Because over the years his parents have invested in U.S. Savings Bonds—in his name, for his future—by participating in the Payroll Savings Plan at work.

He probably doesn't even know. And right now, he couldn't care less. But when he's older, that money can be used for a lot of things—a car, a college education, or even a new home.

The Payroll Savings Plan is an easy way to save money for you and every member of your family. When you join, an amount you designate will be automatically laid aside from your paycheck and invested in U.S. Savings Bonds. It's a painless way to save.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5½% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra ½%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970 . . . with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

Join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work and make your son the richest kid on the block.

Bonds are safe. If lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace them. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Tax may be deferred until redemption. And always remember, Bonds are a proud way to save.

The U.S. Government does not pay for this advertisement. It is presented as a public service in cooperation with The Department of the Treasury and The Advertising Council.

WILLIAM McCARTHY

A 7-Year Greenbelt Resident

by Auth. - R. Luffman, S. Holloman, M. Sardelli

Three For Greenbelt

At this critical time in Greenbelt history we need a new majority on the City Council. Whoever your favorite choice, I respectfully recommend that you also vote for the following three good men — citizens all, not one politician.

THOMAS X. WHITE — Greenbelt's ombudsman, a tough civic leader and a skilled administrator, he is in tune with Greenbelt's environmental needs. As a councilman he will continue to pursue public issues with steady determination.

RICHARD J. CASTALDI — Born in Greenbelt, with roots deep in this community, he will provide us desperately needed expertise in urban planning and development controls.

JOHN P. BOGUMILL — Long dedicated to the schools and the people, he is an economist whose aim is streamlining government for efficient service.

Their's is a rich tradition of commitment to our city and they will bring to our government their integrity and ability.

O'SULLIVAN

TO GREENBELT CITY COUNCIL

Jim O'Sullivan Supports:

- enhancement of the environment
- sound planning
- prudent budgets
- open and responsive government
- city-wide recreation programs
- co-operation and communication

Authority of Rosemary Gallick, Treasurer

You Be the Judge

An incumbent runs on his record.

CHARLES F. SCHWAN

—Wrote the resolution which persuaded State and County authorities to adopt the City's stringent safety precautions for the Greenbriar sewage treatment plant. The inability of the developer to meet these requirements has stopped construction of the plant.

—Supported use of revenue-sharing funds to construct Springhill Lake Recreation Center and reconstruct Ridge Road, thus freeing bond issue money for parkland acquisition. This will stretch the tax dollar to the fullest because city park funds can be matched by federal and state grants.

—Supported acquiring additional parkland and open space in Parcel 15 (near Charlestowne Village), Parcel 1 (near GHI) and Smith-Ewing property (across the Parkway), thus forestalling high density development in these areas.

—Supported acquiring the Springhill Lake Golf Course for recreation use and the site of the Recreation Center.

—Supported renovation of the Center Mall.

—Supported lighting existing tennis courts and building 4 additional courts.

—Supported county tax relief for double taxed city residents.

—Supported securing federal and state grant money for an intra-city bus study.

—Supported establishment of Greenbelt Youth Counseling Service, GREENBELT CARES.

—Supported liberalizing eligibility requirements for tax credits for the elderly, low-income homeowners and similar tax relief for those who rent.

—Supported adequate pay raises for city employees and policemen.

* * * * *

—Opposed swap of land to make available to amusement park owners a portion of Greenbelt Park.

—Opposed sale of any part of Agricultural Research Center to Marriott Corp.

—Opposed extension of Interstate Highway 95 beyond Beltway.
